information and evidence relating to the alleged wrongdoing, and the person who lodges the complaint, will be protected in accordance with Clause 5.

1.3 In the case that the person who lodges a complaint does not reveal his or her identity, the whistleblower coordinator, upon receipt of the lodging of complaint, will consider whether the information of the alleged complaint contains detailed facts or whether the evidence is clear and sufficient, provided that the matters will not be accepted if they meet the following description:

- (1) The information as to witnesses, evidence, circumstances, or wrongdoing is not clear enough or sufficient to conduct any investigation of the facts.
- (2) The matter has been considered or fairly and finally decided by the Internal Audit Office or the Consideration Committee or the competent agency, and there is no new material witnesses or evidence.

2. Persons who may Lodge Complaints or be a Whistleblower

Any person who is aware or has reasonable doubt in good faith, regardless of whether he or she will be damaged, that a director, employee, or any person acting for the Company has committed a wrongdoing, may lodge a complaint or be a whistleblower. In this regard, the Company encourages the person who lodges a complaint or is a whistleblower to reveal his or her identity and/or provide clear and sufficient information relating to the alleged wrongdoing and to provide his or her contact information as the communication channel with the Company.

3. Reporting of False Information

In the case that there is apparent and sufficient evidence that the whistleblower is under a clear circumstance to lodge a complaint or make an accusation in bad faith (for example, disclosing information relating to a personal claim or having the intent to cause conflict in the Company's group), or that the employees do not truly believe that such information is true (for example, rumors), or in the case that such disclosure of information is made for personal interests, such act shall constitute a disciplinary offense and may be considered a severe offense. In this regard, the Company shall conduct an investigation for the consideration of punishment in accordance with the regulations of the Company, and the Company must undertake any act to protect the reputation of the persons who are the subject of the complaints as follows:

- 3.1 In the case that the person who lodges a complaint or information is an employee, the Company shall conduct an investigation for imposing punishment in accordance with the Work Rules of the Company.
- 3.2 In the case that the person who lodges a complaint or information is an outsider and the Company's reputation is damaged, the Company may consider initiating legal action against the person who lodges the complaint.

- 4.1 The Board of Directors shall delegate the Audit Committee to oversee and formulate practice guidelines on the handling of complaints or information addressed to the specified channels.
- 4.2 The Audit Committee shall appoint a person, who will act independently and report directly to the Audit Committee, to have the duty to receive complaints or information addressed to the specified channels in Clause 8.
- 4.3 The Internal Audit Office or the person delegated by the Audit Committee has the duty to manage, administer, gather, screen, verify any complaints or information which has been received through the whistleblowing channels by considering the initial clearness and sufficiency of the evidence. If the complaint has grounds, the Internal Audit Office or the person delegated by the Audit Committee will verify facts and gather evidence and witnesses for further submission of the matter to the Consideration Committee. The Consideration Committee will prepare a report and opinion to be proposed to the Audit Committee for further consideration. If the Audit Committee considers that the wrongdoing is committed with malicious intent or has a material impact on the business of the Company, the Audit Committee will take reasonable steps to rectify such situation.

Upon the completion of the consideration of complaints according to the consideration procedure in Clause 6, the Internal Audit Department or a person assigned by the Audit Committee shall report a summary of the actions taken regarding the whistleblowing/complaints to the independent directors.

- 4.4 Complaints may be lodged against the directors, employees, or any persons acting for of the Company for committing any wrongdoing under Clause 1.
- 4.5 If, in the consideration of complaints or information, it appears that such alleged wrongdoing has been supported, arranged, or ordered by other persons, it shall be deemed that the complaint is lodged against such persons.
- 4.6 The collaborator in the investigation of complaints include the directors, employees, or third parties who are requested to cooperate by the Consideration Committee to give any information which is related or may be related to the complaints.

5. Protection of Whistleblowers and Related Persons

- 5.1 The person who lodged a complaint or is a whistleblower may choose not to reveal his or her identity if he or she considers that he or she will be placed in an unfavorable position, provided that clear and sufficient details and evidence must be provided to demonstrate that there is reasonable cause to believe that an act has been committed in violation of the laws, the rules, the regulations of the Company, the Corporate Governance Policy or the Business Code of Conduct. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Company encourages the person who lodges a complaint or is a whistleblower to reveal his or her identity and provide clear and sufficient information and evidence in lodging such complaint.
- 5.2 In order to protect the rights of the person who lodges a complaint or is a whistleblower and prevent such person from being defamed as a result of his or her lodging the
